

WORLD WATER DAY

BY: NCC (AIR & ARMY WING)

DATED: 22-03-2019

On March 22, 2019, the NCC Cadets of GC Kullu commemorated World Water Day with fervor and dedication, underlining the critical importance of water conservation in contemporary times. Thirty-two enthusiastic cadets participated in various activities aimed at raising awareness and contributing positively to the environment. The day commenced with a comprehensive briefing by the Associate NCC Officer (ANO) regarding the prevalent water crisis confronting mankind, elucidating its present challenges and potential future impacts. Subsequently, the cadets engaged in practical endeavors to manifest their commitment towards water conservation. They diligently watered saplings within the college plantation area, symbolizing their dedication to nurturing and preserving natural resources. Furthermore, recognizing the significance of maintaining water bodies, the cadets embarked on a riverbed cleaning drive along the perimeter of the college campus, demonstrating their proactive approach towards environmental stewardship.
